Innovation in the integration of the activities of recycling and the extraction of natural aggregates

Aridos Valdearcos S.L. has successfully innovated its activities related to extraction, transformation, commercialisation and sale of natural aggregates with the integration of the recycling of construction and demolition materials in its production processes. Innovation in the aggregate sector through the incorporation of recycled material, whenever technically feasible, into its activity of restoration, manufacturing and marketing and sales processes, has meant a productive improvement materialising in an efficient utilisation of resources and knowledge along with obtaining satisfactory economic results.
